Yale State Bank JUDGE TUCKER'S DECISION

A FAIR AND UNBIASED DECISION COUPLED WITH THE KINDEST ADVICE TO THE VOTER.—
BE SURE YOU VOTE RIGHT.

The information in this cause is filed for the purpose of restraining the Board of Election Commissioners of the City of Yale, County of St. Clair Michigan, from causing to be placed upon the election ballots to be voted on April 5th, 1915, the name of the defendant, Herbert T. Hennessy, as a candidate for the office of Mayor of the City of Yale.

No question is made as to his proper nomination and certification as such candidate. The sole question raised is that as to his citizenship. It is claimed that he is not a qualified elector, being at the present time a citizen of Canada. It is claimed on the other hand that he is a citizen of the state of Michigan. The undisputed facts seem to be these:—

Mr. Hennessy was born in Canada. His father was Arthur Hennessy, of Strathroy, Canada. His mother was Mary Rapley of St. Clair county, Michigan. As to his father's citizenship, there is no positive proof in the case, as to when or where he was born, or as to whether or not he ever became or was a citizen of the United States, although it would seem fair to assume from the facts that he lived in Canada and is not shown to have ever been in the United States; that he was a citizen of Canada. He died in Canada when defendant was six years old. Mary Rapley, defendant's mother, was born in St. Clair county, Michigan, lived here for a time and then went to Canada, where she married Arthur Hennessy, and lived with him there until the defendant was six years of age.

After her husband's death, she returned to St. Clair county, Michigan, where she has since lived. She was born a citizen of the United States and it is the claim of the defendant that whatever may have been the citizenship of her husband and even assuming that in going to Canada and marrying him she became with him a citizen of Canada, that when she returned immediately after his death and made her home in Michigan, remaining here continuously until defendant, then six years of age, became twenty-one, and afterwards, that she resumed her American citizenship, and that in doing so she made an American Citizen of her son, the defendant; that the defendant has spent his life in Michigan since he was six years old is not disputed; when he became of age some eighteen years ago he voted in St. Clair county and that he has voted there ever since. He has been elected several times to office and has always claimed citizenship here. After he was nominated for Mayor in March of this year, his citizenship being questioned, he went to Detroit and made application in the United States Court to become a citizen. In this application he stated that he was a subject of King George.

To say the least, defendant Hennessy's claim to citizenship in Michigan is open to grave doubt, but on account of the fact that the time is too short to give the question the full consideration it merits, and because I am convinced that no Court should interfere in a case of this sort by injunction without time for full and fair consideration and review by a higher Court, unless the case is clear and free from doubt, I have concluded to deny the writ asked for, leaving the parties to determine the matter in a proper proceeding in the case of defendant's election. If he is not elected the matter will have settled itself.

The opinion obtained from the Attorney General I take it, was based upon the supposition that the defendant was born in Canada, of American parents, in which case he would now without doubt, be a citizen of the United States.

If his mother had married again after her return to Michigan, and during defendant's infancy, and her second husband had been an American Citizen, there would be no doubt of defendant's citizenship. But I am not at all clear, that if she lost her American citizenship by marriage to a citizen in Canada, coupled with a change of residence to Canada, that she could regain it, after his death, by coming back to Michigan, and also bestow the same rights upon her infant son. Dated this 2nd day April, A. D. 1915. JAMES G. TUCKER, Circuit Judge.

In other words, Judge Tucker says: You can go ahead boys, and vote, and if Mr. McIntyre is elected, the matter is settled, and if you elect Mr. Hennessy, you have the privilege of having a lawsuit to see whether you have elected a man who can qualify or not.

Judge Tucker has left it to the intelligence of the voters of the City of Yale to settle this dispute. It does not seem to us that, with the above opinion in mind, the intelligent voter will deliberately walk up to the polls and vote for Mr. Hennessy which will only mean a prolonged litigation in the Courts to settle his status as Mayor of the City of Yale, in case he is elected.

If Mr. Hennessy is elected it will be a very serious matter for the city because of the fact that until the question of his status is determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, all transactions of the city during the period the question remains undetermined, will depend for their legality upon whether or not Mr. Hennessy is qualified to hold the office of Mayor, thus making it obligatory upon the city to take legal proceedings immediately after Mr. Hennessy's election to determine whether the office of Mayor is vacant or whether he is qualified to perform the duties thereof.

Proceedings of this sort are expensive and it would seem to us that the only solution to the difficulty is to vote for Mr. McIntyre, who was born in Michigan, and as to whose citizenship and other qualifications no question can be raised.

Delta Lambda Play

The play, "The Gypsy Tinker" occupied the boards at Central Hall on Friday evening last and played to a full house.

The Delta Lambda club produced the excellent drama and the cast was made up of its members with the characters well balanced.

The story and its plot, the unweaving of its mysteries through the revelations of the roaming gypsy and his wife, the tortuous course of true love, all was put straight, and the tale ended with interest throughout.

Mrs. Berenice Fuller imitated the willful, wayward and wealthy young Imogene Courtleigh to perfection and won much praise. L. Roy Fuller certainly did justice to his part, that of Lige, a gentleman of color.

Mrs. Nellie Farley made a bewitching little gypsy and her name was Ginger. E. W. Mrs. Farley's husband, made an ideal lover in the play, showing he hadn't forgotten how. He took the part of Dink Potts.

Hada Rapley impersonated Nance Tyson, Ginger's supposed mother. Her makeup was certainly great.

Prudence Freebarr, a poor relation, was well taken by Mrs. Marcia Andrae. Her whole hearted interest in Major Duffy created much mirth.

Dr. Lacy took the character of Major Duffy, who was rather averse to Miss Freebarr's love making.

Horace Verrier, the artist in the play, was well done by A. V. Parmlee. His hasty marriage did not end in repentance for him.

Buck Tyson, the gypsy tinker, upon whom the whole play seemed to hinge, was impersonated by J. E. Ryan, who is excellent in any part and whose acting and makeup this evening elicited many favorable comments.

Clarence Umphrey did the part of Squire Ripley, the Virginian landlord, in great shape as also did Clyde Adams, who as is usually the case, was given the villain's part.

The dupe was well characterized by Clifford Hutton, whose dudish dress and speech produced much laughter.

We are glad to say that the club will have some seventy-five dollars to expend on books for the library, an institution which although not very large, as yet, is certainly appreciated by Yale people as the call for books show. The best and latest of fiction is always procured.

SPECIALTIES

Piano duets and solos were played by Helen Harrington and Ruth Menzies and Mrs. Cochran.

There were also two pretty songs and acting by eight girls dressed in the first as Japanese with their kimono, sandals, pompoms, etc. and singing "China-town." In the second appearance the same girls were dressed in white skirts and middie with red ties and hair ribbons and the song was "Fly the Sea." With Rawley Hallman rendering the solo. The effect was very charming.

Alma College Glee Club Concert.

A goodly-sized audience listened to a treat when twenty voices forming the Alma College Glee Club, gave a recital at Central hall on Wednesday evening this week.

Solos, duets, quartettes and choruses with violin selections and impersonations made up an evening of rare enjoyment.

Prof. Veatch appears as an admirable director of music, and the well-trained voices of these young men responded to his every movement.

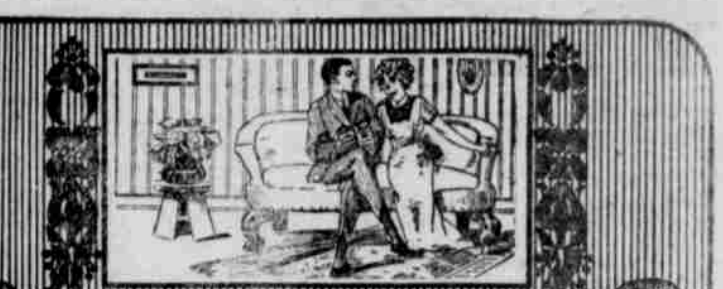

The act of up-to-date Grand Opera was a fetching little bit, amusing and charming.

This ended the program, which was all too short according to the spirit of the audience.

We would predict for this college glee club an overflowing house if they should choose Yale for a stopping place again.

East Lansing, Mich., March 24.—Gradual abolishment of the farmers' institute system in Michigan is contemplated by the State Board of Agriculture which has announced a plan to bring the farmers' institute department of the college under the extension department. The institutes probably will be replaced by the one-week schools with which the college department has been experimenting for two years.

Reasons given for the contemplated change are that in numerous instances the schools and the institutes were duplicating each other's work, and also that the one-week schools are more effective than the institutes in keeping Michigan farmers posted on the newer agricultural ideas.

SECURITY

THE proverbial "rainy day" holds no terrors for the family circle in which the bank book shows marks of constant handling.

There is an atmosphere of peace, preparedness, comfort, happiness and security about that home. The sad, pinched faces and haunted looks of dread and fear have no place there.

You will never experience the joyous pride of having this security and provision until you determine to save. The next step is an account here.
